Docket: No. 98-4124, Notice 1

DEPT. OF TRANSPORTATION
DOCKET SECTION
98 AUG 19 PM 4:07

Dear Sirs:

Rather than reducing the intensity of daytime running lights over the next four years, they should be outlawed. There has never been a more stupid idea for automobiles.

I am a trained and licensed racing driver, with good instincts and reactions, but I am still distracted by DRLs to the point of making everyday driving dangerous.

The more sensible rule would require lights (front AND back) to go on automatically with windshield wipers.

Also please focus on the really needed issue of lane discipline on highways.

Thank you.

Regards,
